5 things to do in Brussels, part 1 The first place you should visit is Mannequin Pist You can't miss this iconic fountain in Brussels It is a statue of a small boy urinating into a fountain's basin And if you're lucky enough, you'll see him in one of the thousand outfits he has Like the St Nicholas outfit Second place to see is Grand Place This is the most famous and beautiful place in Brussels It is the central square of the city, known for its gold and grand decor And my tip for you is to visit this place early in the morning to avoid the crowds Third thing to do in Brussels is get Belgian Waffles Are Belgian Waffles as good as the hype? Well, I'm here to tell you that they definitely are They're way crispier and fluffier than regular Waffles I recommend going to Mason Dandoy and getting their simply Dandoy Waffles And you can thank me later Fourth thing to do is shop at the Royal Gallery of Saint-Noubert This is one of the oldest shopping arcades in Europe, with chocolate shops, cafes, clothing stores, and restaurants Lastly, take a break from the city life and head to Mont-des-Arts Garden It is a beautiful garden that overlooks the city They even had a swing which was so fun And I highly recommend taking a stroll and relaxing here Follow for part two. airportpg: Brussels' amazing density of art nouveau architecture makes wandering a joy. kristy | travel & experiences: You make Brussels look so fun!! kaitlyn travel: I miss Brussels Mat Kudut: Funny i brussels: doing road repair during rush hour Chloew: Brussels is not nice not a pretty city.
