

reCAPTCHA

I'm not a robot

reCAPTCHA
Privacy - Terms

■Martyna■: wszystko idzie zgodnie z planem ElaVit: Amazing!

<https://www.tiktok.com/@wild.pencil/video/7159851537941024006> Is it travelling or traveling? Both spellings are correct, but "travelling" is the more commonly used spelling in British English while "traveling" is the more commonly used spelling in American English. How do you spell travelling in the UK? Travelling in the UK is typically spelled with two Ls, as in "travelling." What is the difference between travel and traveling? "Travel" is a noun that refers to the action or activity of traveling, while "traveling" is the present participle form of the verb "to travel," which means to go from one place to another, typically over a distance. So, travel is the act of traveling, while traveling is the actual process of moving from one place to another. Why is traveling spelled two ways? Both spellings, "traveling" and "travelling," are correct and widely used in various English-speaking countries. The spelling "traveling" is more commonly used in American English, while the spelling "travelling" is more commonly used in British English. This difference in spelling is due to regional variations and preferences in the English language. Ultimately, both spellings are considered correct and acceptable.