Hey, hey, hey, lover, you don't have to be a star Hey, hey, hey, lover, I love you just the way you are The one who's just the same and a fortune off and just gives me true love and understanding, true love and understanding Hey, hey, hey, lover, you don't have to be a king Hey, hey, hey, lover, you don't have to have a thing There are habits at its time, now as you are my guide Just give me true love and understanding, true love and understanding For the rest of my life Well, you are meant to worry, life's a treasure in my hands But if you really, really love me, am I to be a big man? Hey, hey, lover, won't you treat me right? If you're with me tonight, just give me true love and understanding, true love and understanding For the rest of my day Well, you won't have to worry, life's a problem in my hands But if you really, really love me, am I to be a big man? Hey, lover, won't you treat me right? If you're with me tonight, just give me true love and understanding True love and understanding Hey, hey, hey, lover, you don't have to be a star Hey, hey, hey, lover, I love you just the way you are But I won't accept the saying that I've watched enough and just give me true love and understanding True love and understanding Hey, hey, hey, lover, you don't have to be a king Hey, hey, hey, lover, you don't have to have a thing But I'll be satisfied now as you are my guide Just give me true love and understanding True love and understanding For the rest of my day Well, you won't have to worry, life's a problem in my hands But if you really, really love me, am I to be a big man? Spring in New York is a beautiful time of year. The temperatures start to warm up after the cold winter, and the city comes alive with blooming flowers and trees. The days start to get longer, and people come out of hibernation to enjoy the parks, outdoor cafes, and events happening around the city. There is a sense of renewal and freshness in the air, making it a great time to explore all that New York has to offer. From cherry blossoms in Central Park to outdoor markets and festivals, spring in New York is a magical time to visit. What to do in New York in spring? 1. Visit Central Park: Take a leisurely stroll through Central Park, enjoy a picnic or rent a rowboat on the lake. 2. Explore the High Line: Walk along the elevated park on the former train tracks, which offers unique views of the city and beautiful spring blooms. 3. Check out the cherry blossoms at Brooklyn Botanic Garden: Admire the stunning cherry blossoms in full bloom at the Brooklyn Botanic Garden's annual Sakura Matsuri festival. 4. Attend a rooftop bar: Enjoy a drink with a view at one of New York City's many rooftop bars, which start opening up as the weather warms up. 5. Visit museums and galleries: Explore the city's world-class museums and art galleries, such as the Metropolitan Museum of Art, MoMA, and the Guggenheim Museum. 6. Attend a baseball game: Catch a game at Yankee Stadium or Citi Field and enjoy the lively atmosphere of a baseball game in New York. 7. Go shopping: Spring is a great time to explore the city's many shopping districts, such as SoHo, Fifth Avenue, and Union Square. 8. Take a sightseeing cruise: See New York City from a different perspective by taking a sightseeing cruise around Manhattan Island. 9. Attend a street fair or festival: Check out one of the many street fairs and festivals that take place in New York City in the spring, offering food, music, and entertainment. 10. Explore neighborhoods: Take the time to wander through different neighborhoods in the city, such as Greenwich Village, Williamsburg, or Harlem, and discover hidden gems and local spots. Is it cold in New York during spring? The temperature in New York during spring can vary, but it is generally mild and can range from cool to warm. It is not typically very cold during the spring months, but there can be chilly days, especially in the earlier part of the season.
