So you're going to Jeju Island, but you don't know what to do or where to stay I got you Hi, my name is Max I used to live in Jeju And while I lived there, I had a car and got to explore the whole island, so I think I'm a good friend to help you plan your trip First things first, how much time do you need? I think you need around three full days if you are not planning on hiking Halesan, which is the beautiful mountain in the center of your trip Seoul and Jeju have plenty of back and forth flights, so try to get the earliest one out of Seoul on the first day and the last one out of Jeju on the last day The weather there is also super temperamental You never really know what you're going to get By having three to four days, you can always mix around your schedule, and if you know that one day is like the perfect weather day, you can plan accordingly Maybe you do that day for your hike, etc Okay, where to stay If I recommend staying in the south east part of the island This will give you very easy access to beautiful places like Bijarim Forest, Songsan Ilchulbong You can take a ferry to Udo Island, which is a very small island next to Jeju and bike around it It's also famous for its jajangmyeon and it's really good Everybody else, in my humble opinion, stay on the southwest side of the island I personally think there's more fun things to do on the south Also, just make sure you're not staying like under Hala San so that you can get around the mountain like easier in case you want to go to like Ewa, which is on the north side But also the southwest part of Jeju has some of my personal favorite restaurants There's Myeongin-ae, which is known for their raw mackerel It has Haeworjeong, which I recommended and is now Stephanie's who approved It has Jeonin-ae, which is, oh my God, jdr: What's the car renting process in Jeju? I'm assuming you need an international drivers license? kris: any tips for if you don't have a car?! Shannon's Shenanigans: First time I went to Jeju, I stayed on the northwest side as part of a tour group. Second time by myself I stayed in the south (Seogwipo) in a hostel jazzmatazz129: Can you do everything in busan for like 1 and a half day? Kristina Bobovnicka: Did I leave Hallasan to the last day which had a weather safety warning and told not to hike? Did I miss the last ferry to Udo? Yes and yes.
